

Urban Growers Cohort

May - August 2025

Applications due April 15

Kentucky State University Cooperative Extension is excited to announce the launch of its new Urban Growers Program in Louisville's west end. This program is designed to equip 30 aspiring farmers and experienced growers with the knowledge and resources they need to thrive in the urban agriculture community of Kentucky.

The Urban Growers Cohort program will offer participants:

-  Training on soil conservation, new technologies, farm business management, water quality planning, and ecommerce.
-  Free soil testing and training.
-  Mentorship from experienced professionals from KSU's College of Agriculture.
-  Networking and peer-to-peer learning experiences with a dedicated cohort of farmers.
-  Farm tours and access to industry resources.
-  Certificate of completion and take-home growing toolkit.

Ideal candidates will possess:

- 1 year growing experience (i.e. community garden, backyard garden, on a farm).

For more information, contact:

APPLY TODAY!

Due April 15 | Space is limited.

https://ksu.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV\_1SKNhQNivigE68K

Kelly Rawalt

Local Food Systems Justice Coordinator

KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

Cooperative Extension Program

502-597-6847

kelly.rawalt@ksu.edu

Kentucky State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action provider.